RARE OBESITY®

A guide to taking your genetic test

WHAT TO EXPECT

What to expect

Your doctor or healthcare professional ordered this genetic test, which is sponsored by Rhythm Pharmaceuticals. Testing happens in 2 parts.

1. SAMPLE COLLECTION

You provide a sample via an oral swab or blood test in your doctor's office. Your doctor then sends your sample to our clinical laboratory partner, PreventionGenetics, for testing.

2. GENETIC TESTING

Once the lab receives your sample, it will confirm the sample meets its quality standards and begin testing. If information is missing or another sample is needed, your doctor's office will contact you.

Results

A genetic report with the results from your test will be sent directly to your doctor in approximately 3 weeks. Genetic test results may be positive, negative, or uncertain.

Your doctor will review your results and the options available to you, including any possible treatments or clinical trials. You may want to set up this appointment with your doctor in advance.

Licensed genetic counselors are also available to answer questions and help interpret results through 2 no-charge genetic counseling sessions, one before and one after your test.
